1. What is a crime? Give an example. ________________________________________________________________

2. Why does the police force exist? ________________________________________________________________

3. When did the first police depot open in Melbourne? _________________________________________________

4. What does the word force mean? Give an example. __________________________________________________

5. Who tells the police force what to do? ____________________________________________________________

6. Why are some people put in a small room with bars? ________________________________________________

7. What are some of the names for such rooms? ______________________________________________________

8. What is a witness? Give an example. ______________________________________________________________

9. What is the origin of the word ‘court’? ______________________________________________________________

10. Where did most of the laws in the western world come from? ________________________________________

11. What is a prosecutor? _________________________________________________________________________

12. What is a defendant? _________________________________________________________________________

13. What is a magistrate? _________________________________________________________________________

14. What is a jury? ______________________________________________________________________________

15. What is the difference between the Supreme Court of Victoria and the Magistrates’ Court of Victoria?
    _____________________________________________________________________________________________

Below is the general layout of a Magistrates’ Court room

[Diagram of a Magistrates’ Court room with the following sections: Witness Box, Magistrate, Bench Clerk, Dock, Bar Table, Prosecutor, Defendant or legal Representative, Public Gallery]
Planning Our Journey

On the map below mark the following (use your own key):

St Kilda Road Police Station (412 St Kilda Road)
Magistrates’ Court of Victoria
Supreme Court of Victoria
Old Melbourne Gaol